

National Nurses Week kicked off magnificently at the Jersey City Medical Center. Today a beautiful tree was planted by the Registered Nurses at the Jersey City Medical Center in celebration of Nurses' Week 2011. This activity betokens the theme, "Nurses entrusted to care for the Earth."

It's a Cleveland Pear tree and its height is 30'-35' feet.

We have attached a few pictures from the planting:

This event was spearheaded by Nursing Staff Satisfaction and Retention Council. Chaired by Maria Adams.

The Council has planned many interesting activities to recognize our nurses including a fair on Monday.
