Hi Mabel. My name is Junn Michael Bautista, and I currently work at 6East. I'm currently in the RN-to-BSN program at NJCU and in my last semester, which is to propose a project of concern and implement it. I have proposed my topic of interest to Elenita, who is covering Marilyn at present, and to Maribel our Admitting RN, and they have expressed interest and suggested I get in contact with you. My proposed project is on Alarm Fatigue, which suggests that nurses have become desensitized to different alarm noises (ie: telemetry monitors, ventilators, call lights, bipap/cpap, etc.), and how it is a concern for patient safety. I'm currently writing my proposal for school on this topic and would like to integrate it to my work setting, but I would like to get your input on it and if it is a worthy project for JCMC. My goal is in creating awareness and how it may affect patient outcomes and possible strategies in reducing it. I would really appreciate it if Education staff would be able to assist me. Thank you.
